Two minor glitches:

1- On updating your personal profile, people may miss, as I did, the need to go back to the top of the page and click on that update profile link. It might be better placed at the end of the update screens.

2- I could not get in to the "Website feedback" forum at all. That is why I started a whole new forum. Feel free to eliminate it when the glitch is fixed.

Still working on making the forums easier. You can only post a message when someone has started a forum, if that makes sense. So you did the right thing.

Website is really coming along very nicely, which is remarkable, considering all the disruptions at the NCPS office that have happened in recent months. Kristin and Bruce both deserve medals!
